Reservations will be taken between 10
A.M. and 12 noon at the Bowl-Mor Alleys ship program.

"The idea that if you didn't make your

is wrong," said association president Charles W. Ganzel. He will take reservations over the phone as will Mrs. Philip Murray or Mrs. Charles Phillips, Jr.
in Mattapoisett; Mrs. A. Barton Cummins
in Rochester and Mrs. Robert Thackeray in Marion.

John Girard reported on plans for the Horse Pull he is planning. He has obtained permission from Mr. Gibbs Bray to hold the horse pull in the field across the street from the Town Hall. This event will be held on August 5, the same day as the chicken barbecue at the Congregational Church and the Craft Show at the library, thus offering the whole family a varied and pleasant day in Rochester Center.

Mr. Rene Rivet announced that he has decided to change the parade route, so that Route 105 does not need to be tied up for such a long time. The new route will make a complete circle starting and ending at the Raynor Gifford Park, traveling up Mary's Pond Road, across Clapp Road, down Men-

The Woman's Club and the Historical Society play which will be presented July 15 and 22 has begun rehearsals, and the major roles cast. Minor roles, chorus and townspeople are still open and people of all ages, children and adults, are needed. The play is a picture of life in Rochester in 1680 and a whole community should be represented.

Singers, dancers, painters, seamstresses, technicians and backstage help are needed. Just drop in to a rehearsal, held three or four times a week. Call Mrs. Nancylee Gauder or Mrs. Judith Gurney for the time and date of the next one.

The Photo Contest is still on. Best photo in two categories, black and white, and color, will receive one hundred dollars cash prize. Entries may be left with any Historical Society member or left in the drop box at the Town Hall Conference Room. All entries will be displayed at the library until Labor Day Weekend, when the prizes will be awarded. Contest manager is Jody Smith.

MATTAPOISETT

In this issue of Presto Press you will find our ad listing all trips for Seniors that have been planned for June. Please cut this ad out and save for reference. Please remember to make your reservations by calling at or phoning the Selectmen's Office (758-3758) on Monday or Thursday between the hours of 10:00 A.M. and 12:00 Noon. The reason that we request payment of any fee well in advance is to try to avoid last minute cancellations that can deprive someone of a chance to go, with no time to notify or arrange for a substitute. Do notify us as soon as possible if you unexpectedly cannot make a trip. We often have a waiting list. We reserve the privilege of cancelling a trip because of unfavorable weather or not enough reservations.

Please note that we have scheduled two Minibus trips to the Heritage Plantation in place of a big bus. This allows a choice of days and a needful saving in our transportation costs. This trip is one of our finest. The rhododendrons and azaleas should be at their peak and with transportation furnished between the three museums, for those of you who need it, it should make a fine day. We bring our own lunch and picnic in the special area just outside the project.

WEEDING OUT?

Let us help! We are anxious to buy the excess items in your home and out buildings: antiques, used furniture & furnishings, bric-a-brac, household items, garden tools, etc., etc.

We are fair and honest in our dealings. Our reputation speaks for itself.

Spring Carnival

A THANK YOU

Any successful event usually requires the active participation of a good number of people. Such was the case for the Spring Carnival held on May 19. The enthusiastic merry-makers who gathered under the Big Top certainly had an enjoyable evening with many having to be encouraged to leave after the 1 A.M. deadline!

The organizing committee is deeply appreciative of the strong support received from the officers and members of the Congregational Church Couples Club, St. Anthony's Church Couples Club and the Lions Club. A sincere thank you is also extended to the local merchants who generously donated supplies and prizes. Father Bill is also due our gratitude for making the church hall and associated facilities so readily available. Finally, we are pleased to announce that the proceeds from Spring Carn-

The Mattapoisett Seniors Club voted a donation of $25. to the Jack Gould Scholarship Fund at a meeting last Thursday in St. Anthony's Church Hall.

A meeting scheduled on June 28 was canceled as Joseph Perry, president, presided.

The club's next activity will be an event to which members may bring guests. It is the annual "Mary Hillman" chicken pie luncheon on June 14 in the church hall. Tickets which went on sale last week are being handled by Miss Emily Perry, chairman. An additional charge is being made for guests' tickets.

The club's July calendar will be highlighted by a picnic at the Holy Ghost Grounds, with men of the club in charge of arrangements. The date is to be announced.

On August 18 the club will hold a Flea Market, Food Sale and Fun Fair in the church hall. Members are to bring items for the Flea Market to the June and July terms generally, subject only to the requirement that no restrictions may be made respecting race, color, religious persuasion, or sex. In the absence of other instruction, the funds would be awarded by the Faculty Scholarship Committee.

Those interested in having their donations added to the capital scholarship funds may consider donations to the District, specifying that the contribution be added to the capital scholarship funds of the district and that the awards arising therefrom be made in memoriam without limit of time.

The Dr. Joseph C. Kunces Memorial Fund is separately administered in that awards are made by a special committee constituted for that purpose.

Another option available to members of the community is a contribution to the "X" Fund Scholarship Trust, a privately instituted irrevocable trust, instituted by a friend of the community who wishes that his/her identity not be known. Additions to the capital funds may be made by any person and designated as a memorial.

The income from this fund is awarded as scholarship(s) to graduating seniors by an awards committee consisting of persons

If your home was built without an outside basement door, adding one now will open up a whole extra floor of valuable space. Space for recreation, hobbies and storage. Bulky articles move directly in and out; no tracking through upstairs rooms.

As a replacement for a wooden door, the rugged all-steel Bilco Door will add beauty and value to your home — while paying for itself by saving repair costs.

Church brought many families to the area, including Thomas' brothers, Abraham Jr. and Jethro. Thomas helped build the new church and was soon elected the treasurer.

His wife was Phoebe Freeman, great granddaughter of former Gov. Prentice and his wife, the daughter of Elder Brewster of the Mayflower Company. They had eight children, including three sons who fought in the Revolution. The family must have known great sadness during this time, for brother Abraham was Lieutenant in the enemy forces.

The home was a near neighbor to the Thomas Swift home, pictured in a recent Presto, and Elizabeth Swift married Joseph Ashley, Jr.

It served as a tavern when owned by Nathan Clark in the middle 19th century, and was a sadly decayed mansion in the early part of this century when torn down by the water works to clear land for watershed.

This photo and story was furnished to us by Mrs. Judith Gurney of North Avenue, Rochester, president of the Rochester Historical Society.

In this year's first round the Browns, under the new leadership of Doc. Frazee, have taken a 2 game lead over the very tough Wanderers. The Browns post a 7-0 record which can only be called outstanding. The Cardinals, coached by Fred Avery, and the Blue Jays, coached by Frank O'Neill, are beating at the door. While a slow start has hampered George Haymaker and his Warriors and Ted Cormier and his Jets I never count them out. The team to watch is Dan Lee's Wanderers, 2 games out and hungry. A big "top of the hat" to Joe Frates and his whole crew. The Astros, 0 and 7, are a team the Browns and everyone else will have a tough time beating. Astros, your my outside shot in the second half.

My Sea Life

BY JOSEPH HADLEY

September, 1849, sailed for San Francisco. April, 1850, sailed for Calcutta via Sandwich Islands and Akyab in ballast; thence to London with first cargo carried by an American ship from India after England declared free trade. At London I received orders to transfer the ship to my first officer, Wm. O. Putnam, who had been with me seven years; chartered the ship to load coal at Cardiff for San Francisco. I went by land to Cardiff, settled the ship accounts, then to Liverpool to take command of Ship Ivanhoe, then on her way from New York. She never arrived; was lost with all on board on Nantucket South Shoal.

My friend, Capt. Hoxie, of the ship "Joseph Walker", offered me a passage to New York. As we were going to the ship, he said, "Hadley, I have no doctor on board; you must act." At first I refused, but on his insisting upon it, said no one there must know me on board except as Dr. Two maiden ladies, whose servant was quite sick and I prescribed for with success, asked me where I had practiced. I replied, since receiving my diploma I had traveled; to accommodate my friend Capt. Hoxie I consented to act as surgeon on the ship. We arrived at New York with our 575 passengers all well. In consideration of my services the owners presented me with fifty dollars. My old friend Mr. Ginn, shipwright of Liverpool, called me Dr. ever after. Years after, meeting an Irishman one day on the dock near my ship Marmion, he accosted me with "How do you do, Dr.". I said "I am sorry not to recognize you." Then he told me he was a passenger on the "Joseph Walker" when I was Dr. and asked what ship I was on now. Pointing to the Marmion I said "This one". Then he said, "I have friends in Ireland who are soon to make the passage to America. I shall write them to come with you."

When I arrived in San Francisco in 1850, there were very few houses. A good many huts and tents, hulks of old vessels were used for lodgings, etc. etc. The streets were very muddy (it was said when a mule got stuck in the mud, he must die there). I met lots of old friends, shipmasters. Some of them had been there six months, spent all their money and couldn't get away.

consigned, said, "It will not be possible for you to get away. You can blow as much as you please, but you won't go." I said, "The bell will ring on the 39th day and we will start."

We had to deal with all classes, some pretty tough characters, and had to be "Hail fellow" with all, knowing we should need help to get a crew. After taking out all the cargo we could find owners for, sold the remainder about one quarter for freight. At noon of the thirty-eight day the ship was only partially ballasted. We finished that night and on the thirty-ninth the bell rang, we unmoored and anchored in the stream, commencing the voyage. My crew was put on board except one man, and the shipping master said he knew where he was and could get him if I would pay the bills. He cost the ship seventy dollars. In a few days, everything being satisfactorily settled, there was a chance to go to sea. I could never have accomplished this had it not been for my chief officer, Wm. O. Putnam, as good a man as ever walked a ship's deck, who is still alive, disabled for active service. Capt. Putman has visited me several times in Marion. Seamen's wages were high, paid seventy dollars per month for the passage to Calcutta and part one hundred by the run to Sandwich Islands.

While in Liverpool, Mrs. Hadley and I went to London sight-seeing, visited the first World's Fair at the Crystal Palace, went to Windsor and many other places of interest.

In January, 1852, took command of ship Marmion from New York with cotton to Havre and back with passengers, being absent but fifty-six days; thence to New Orleans and Liverpool, from there to Portland bay, Australia, with government passengers; thence to Calcutta by steam; there chartered ship for Akyab. In going to the customs house for clearance and to pay port charges, the collector informed me that he had no precedent. The Marmion was the first ship to anchor below Kedgern for orders, but said "I will make a precedent. You are not to rice. Returned to New York, arriving in November, 1853. In December sailed for Liverpool with general cargo. Back to New York. This voyage was the most terrible I ever experienced during my sea life. We left Liverpool January 19th, weather good, strong southerly wind. A few hours out took a heavy gale, lost two men overboard; concluded to take the North Channel. On the night of the 22nd lost a man from the main topsail yard. At 9 A.M. carried away bowsprit at the night-heads. In a short time head of foremast went, the wreck landing on the deck house amidships. A man who was on the lee yard arm of the fore-topsail yard came down with the wreck uninjured. the slings of fore yard gave way. Cleared wreck, replaced fore yard. The gale prevailed for seven days, ship slowly drifting toward Hebrides Islands (Scot.), of which I had no coast chart. On the night of 28th, three men were disabled by carrying away of the maintopsail sheet, reducing our crew one-third. On the 29th at two p.m. sighted Islands. Expected to weather Barra head and enter channel by north passage. At ten p.m. found ourselves unable to weather the head; could see a passage between islands Pabba and Wengola, not sure of its being clear, but it was our last resort: Try that, or lost on the rocks with no one left to tell the tale. When we squared away, the ship headed for the rocks. Under the short sail she refused to answer the helm readily. After a short time paid off and cleared the rocks. We were under close reefed mizzen topsail, main topmast staysail, weather clue of foresail, all the sail we had to set. As we passed through the sea broke on board from the rocks. We got the foresail across the forecastle the night before ready for bending but was unable to do it with our limited crew. After getting through the passage, we bent foresail with a fair wind for the north channel. At 4 a.m. next morning wind hauled to southwest, thick, foggy, wore ship, gave orders to bend cables and clear away anchors, hoping to get to Barra Island, when one of the crew, a Scotch man, informed me there was anchorage. Stood back, fetched passage, anchors were not ready. Wore ship when anchors were ready. Wore ship again. Stood in; found ourselves to leeward of Barra Islands among reefs not on general chart. Luffed and kept away as necessary. At 4 p.m. 30th wind hauled northwest, weather clear, put ship's head in shore; 12 midnight made land, wore ship, at 4 a.m. made land again, wore ship, at 8 a.m. squared away, wind moderated, determined to make port. About 4 p.m. a boat with sixteen men came alongside. Orders were given to allow but one man to board us. He informed me he was a pilot, could take the ship into Lock Slapin

"Isle of Skye"; he signed a contract for amount of pilotage and we came to anchor about 7 p.m. 31st. We provided a place for the boat's crew to sleep next morning. I paid the pilot and advised him to go home (guarding against salvage). Through all our trouble my officers and crew were brave and worked well, except my third officer (a very profane man). I missed him from his post, was told he was in his room praying. Beside crew we had twenty second cabin passengers, most of them women. They gave me no trouble but rendered all the

My first call was upon a Dr. MacAllister. Not finding him at home, I made known my wants to Mrs. McAllister, saying I was in distress. She replied, "Your ship is the first one ever to anchor here." I asked if she could lend me ten pounds. She said, "I have not the money here. There is no conveyance to take you off the island for forty-eight hours". At the end of that time she would provide me with a conveyance to Broadford, twelve miles distant, then the mail carriage would take me on my journey. She would write her banker. I would find the money I required awaiting me at the post office. I offering to secure her with an order on Bird & G--- of Liverpool (Pardon me if I am a little proud here), Mrs. MacAllister said "No! your face is all the guarantee I wish." At the appointed time, went to Broadford, found my money at the P.O. and commenced my journey in an old fashioned chaise - top gone. The driver informed me he would take me eight miles. His horse was twenty-eight years old. At the end of his route we were ferried across in a row boat. There I found waiting me what the driver called a two horse machine. He would take me thirteen miles - length of time three and one-half hours. Roads good but very hilly. There I crossed another ferry. Found another two horse machine. It was now dark. This driver took me five miles to an inn where I spent the night. At 8 next morning the same driver took me fifty miles in an open vehicle, I being so far the only passenger. There I took the regular mail coach (covered) with four horses driving twenty miles to Inverness. At 9 p.m. started again with eight horses for Perth, distance 140 miles, that then being the northern terminus for railroads in Scotland. Took rail for Liverpool, arriving twelve midnight. With my eleven days at sea, comparatively no rest, a journey of 248 miles through Scotland in mid-winter was pretty tough but I was young - troubles were soon forgotten.

The next day, after arriving in Liverpool, chartered the old tug Dreadnaught. Started for the ship at 8 p.m. with a strong gale; put into Troon, Scotland, for coal, about forty-eight hours voyage. Took up my quarters at hotel awaiting arrival of pilot from Glasgow. When we thought all ready for a start, news came from the dock that the tug captain was too drunk to sign his name. I replied I would pay for the coal. When the pilot and I arrived at dock, found the captain too drunk to be seen, Chief Officer and Engineer's condition not much better, Chief Officer just able to get on the bridge. The pilot said, "I'm a steamboat man. We will start." I hesitated for fear we might blow the old tug up. The pilot said "No", and off we started, our drunken mate giving orders about like this: Go - ahead - Slow - (one revolution) Go ahead full speed. So we passed out between the pier heads under full speed. Took passage through

Sound of Jura arriving at the ship next day 1 p.m. We were all sober then. Paid bills and dined with Mrs. MacAllister, in all my long sea life never receiving more kindness from friend or stranger, and the first stranger I ever met who was willing to trust their purse without conditions. I regret that in later years when in England I did not go to see Mrs. MacA. I learned afterward that some wealthy families having wayward sons had sent them there to be treated by Dr. MacAllister for intemperance. It was indeed a very pleasant home. Took ship to Greenock, passing through Sound of Isla, arriving after thirty-six hours passage. Repaired damages. Sailed for New York early in April. On the 23rd experienced a hurricane carrying away head of main mast. Got up jury topmast and in due time arrived.

From New York went to Mobile for cotton; thence to Queenstown for orders; then to Havre. Mrs. Hadley was with me this

From New Orleans to Marseilles with tobacco. Then we took a freight of hay for the French government for the Crimea. Went to Kameisch near Sebastopol in tow of a Cunard Str. touching at Malta. At Kameisch chartered the ship to French government for transport service, making several voyages between Kameisch, Varna, Bourgas and Constantinople. Was at Kameisch when Sebastopol was evacuated. Went there several times. Visited the Malakhof and Redan and dry docks. On one occasion, when visiting the Malakhof, we found English officers making a plan of the fortifications. Shells were flying fast and could have been seen coming through the air from the Russian batteries opposite, pretty hot place to be in. Our visit was brief. We mounted our horses just the right time, as a shell soon exploded where they had been standing. Sebastopol was never occupied by the English and French except to place sentries there. I brought home several souvenirs, have some of them in my possession.

BLOOD BANK AWARDED 2 YEAR ACCREDITATION

The Tobey Hospital blood bank has been awarded a two year accreditation by the American Association of Blood Banks according to John A. Kelenosy, laboratory administrator.

Accreditation follows an on-site inspection by representatives of the association, which establishes that the level of medical, technical, and administrative performance of the facility meets the rigorous standards of the AABB.

Mr. Kelenosy emphasized that the inspection and accreditation procedures are voluntary and that it is not a legal requirement that a blood bank be accredited. The primary goal of the program is to assist facilities to achieve excellence, and thus provide higher quality blood, blood products, and service to patients.

Tobey Hospital has operated its own community blood bank for the past twenty-four years relying solely on the contributions of the people in the area which it serves. This has proven to be a highly successful program in that Tobey Hospital is one of the two hospitals in the state operating today as a community blood bank which, Kelenosy feels, gives better quality control.
